

APPOINTMENTS:—The following appointments on his staff, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, have been made by Governor Safford: Henry A. Bigelow, Daniel H. Stickney; Phelps, adjutant-general, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; and Peter R. Brady, private secretary with the rank of major.

LEXIN, the big lager beer man, has now operation an apparatus for manufacturing and lager. This he recently imported from San Francisco at a cost of $3,000. He has now for a half dozen of beer in the manufacture of which this new apparatus has been employed. That it is an improvement on the old cannot be a question, as we never, in any (and we have been in several,) saw the beer now in our saloons surpassed by any bearing its name.

DAVIS arrived with the eastern mail on Tuesday. He reports having seen a party of about a short distance from the road while passing over the San Simon Bottom. Mr. Davis has many dangers from which most would shrink in fear. There are few, indeed, who possess sufficient nerve or determination to conduct this mail route with so much danger as does M. Davis, and we therefore advise him to be cautious and watchful while traveling where danger lurks behind every shrub and sand bank. It is a sad task to record the death of any pioneer, but especially is it sad to record the death of our bravest and best.

The entire mail route from Tucson, via Camp Grant, Florence, Phoenix and Camp McDowell, is now in operation. The mail leaves Tucson on Sunday evening, for camp Grant, in company with the military express—this arrangement affords protection to both mail and express on this portion of the route. The Floridians have at length got mail facilities, and that they are no longer an isolated people, left to their own brave impulses, we shall expect to find legal proceedings take the place of pistol and knife in settling disputes. Florence, owing to its location—just outside the reservation of the Pima and Maricopa Indians—suffers less from Apache incursions than any other settlement in the Territory; this together with its superior agricultural resources, must soon give it much permanent importance.

"VELOCEPEDASTRIANISM":—There are few who will not readily admit that a velocipede is a very pretty thing to look upon, but equally few are they who will admit that it is a pretty article—learning to ride one, in a dusty street, while the thermometer stands somewhere about 77 in the shade. It is quite amusing to watch an individual taking his first lesson, but from our own experience we can truthfully assert that the rider, or rather the learner while endeavoring to control his motions, cannot see anything to laugh at, even though the whole town should wear a broad grin. We have, however, one gentleman who has succeeded in training himself to the motions of the velocipede and can now manage it with much ease. We saw him whirl across the court-house plaza, a few evenings since, so swiftly that a playful dog, following in his wake, was obliged to strain every muscle to keep up with him in his flight.

MINES:—A new mining excitement has started up, occasioned by the discovery of rich placer diggings in in Sonora. The particulars concerning the discovery reached Tucson some two weeks since, accompanied by an invitation from an officer of the Mexican army to all Americans who wish to go thither, from Tucson, to come along and go to work, and he will furnish them a military guard to protect them from the hostile Indians. This is certainly a very tempting offer, and has had the desired effect. Eight of our citizens, who having lost all confidence in the nominal protection afforded to the people of Arizona, left on Sunday last with provisions, etc., to test the value of the report. These diggings prove only half as rich, or half as extensive as they are represented, the fact will still cause a stampede from rich but neglected Arizona, to this land of promise, untried by anything known of mining excitement—even in the fevered age of '49. This mine is distant from Tucson about 230 miles. We wish our brave adventurers every success, and think it hard that our own government has so persistently denied them that protection which Mexico finds it profitable to extend.

ON A TOUR:—Governor Safford and his lady Hon. Coles Bashford and Judge Titus left Tucson on Thursday to visit northern and central Arizona. The secretary and judge will return within a few weeks, but the Governor with his lady will visit the former home of Mrs. Safford, in South San Diego, and thence take a tour to the Eastern States. Upon learning the Governor's intention the people of Tucson assembled at his residence on Tuesday evening to acknowledge their appreciation of his many efforts in behalf of the Territory, during his sojournment here, and to give a farewell party to himself and his very hospitable and unassuming lady. The company had assembled at 9 o'clock when the music started up and the dance was announced, and never did floor respond beneath the feet of a more jovial and hearty set of dancers. About 1 o'clock the party broke up, when the guests took their departure, feeling happy but not altogether reconciled to lose the society of the Governor and his lady even for a brief time.

SUICIDE:—On Wednesday evening, Mr. Sloan—a gambler, and for some years past a resident of Tucson—committed suicide. During two weeks, immediately preceding the event, he had been suffering from attacks of intermittent fever, and upon the evening named was confined by sickness to his bed. In this condition he requested a young man present to bring the doctor to his room, and no sooner was he thus left alone than he seized his pistol and discharged its contents into his head. His friend, hearing the report of the pistol, returned immediately to the room where he found the victim already in the agonies of death, the bullet having entered above the right ear and penetrated the brain. Mr. Sloan, from some accident through life, became terribly deformed and was entirely disabled from engaging in any kind of heavy or active labor. It is supposed that his being poor and sick and helpless caused him to regard life as burthensome, and urged him to seek rather the uncertainty of eternity.
